

Butane Lighters

Disposable Butane lighters may be handy for smokers, but they can also be dangerous on the job.

- Several accidents have been reported such as where a welder suffered first degree burns to his face when a spark from his welding gun ignited a butane lighter in his shirt pocket.
- Remember, for your own safety, don't carry a disposable lighter on the job when you may be welding, cutting or working in any hot material environment.

